2. And when the door he entered,

With a bride upon his arm.
E
I stood and gazed upon him,
A
As though he were some charm.

So, now he smiles on his love,
D A
As once he smiled on me.
E
He meant not to deceive me,
There'll be no change in me.

3. And when the dance commences,
Oh, how I will rejoice,
I'll sing a song he taught me
Without one faltering voice;
When flatterers come around me
They will think my heart is light,
Though my heart will break tomorrow
I'll be all smiles tonight.

4. And when the dance is over,
And all have gone to rest,
I'll think of him, dear mother,
The one that I love best.
He once did love, believe me,
But he's grown cold and strange,
He sought not to deceive me,
False friends have brought this change.
