

Morningtown Ride - Malvina Reynolds; The Seekers (1964)

1                                    1<sup>7</sup>                    4                                    1            1<sup>7</sup>
Train whistle blowin', makes a sleepy noise.
4                                    1                                    2-                                    5
Underneath their blankets, go all the girls and boys.

CHORUS:

Rockin', rollin', ridin', out along the bay,
4                                    1                                    6-                    5                    5<sup>7</sup>            1
All bound for Morningtown, many miles away.

Driver at the engine, fireman rings the bell,
4                                    1                                    2-                                    5
Sandman swings the lantern, to show that all is well.

(Chorus)

1                                    1<sup>7</sup>                    4                                    1            1<sup>7</sup>
Maybe it is raining, where our train will ride.
4                                    1                                    2-                                    5
All the little travellers, are warm and snug inside.

(Chorus)

1                                    1<sup>7</sup>                    4                                    1            1<sup>7</sup>
Somewhere there is sunshine, somewhere there is day.
4                                    1                    6-            2-            5<sup>7</sup>            5
Somewhere there is Morningtown, many miles away.

(Chorus)
