Stella Blue; Grateful Dead

[Verse 1]
```
1                              1⁷
     All the years combine
4sus4                     4
     They melt into a dream
1-                      5#⁷
     A broken angel sings
                    5⁷
       From a guitar

1                                   1⁷
     In the end, there's just a song
4sus4                        4
     Comes crying like the night
1-                            5#⁷
     Through all the broken dreams
                    5⁷
       And vanished years

              1

[Verse 2]
```
1                              1⁷
     When all the cards are down
4sus4                            4
     There's nothing left to see
1-                               5#⁷
     There's just the pavement left
                    5⁷
       And broken dreams

1                                     1⁷
     In the end, there's still that song
4sus⁷                          4
     Comes crying like the wind
1-                       5#⁷
     Down every lonely street
                    5⁷
       That's ever been

One more time

1                          $1^7$
    It all rolls into one
$4sus^7$                        4
    And nothing comes for free
1-                              $5#^7$
    There's nothing you can hold
                  $5^7$
    For very long
1                          $1^7$
